I love reading. I read detective stories, novels and romantic and fantasy stories. If I am stuck on a train or waiting for something and don't have anything to read, I feel terrible. So something that I spend a lot of money on would probably be books. I always buy a lot of books, magazines and reader's digests. And I keep all of them at home - my mum says it's horrible. Also lots of my money goes on audio books. I always share them with friends. It's a kind of an exchange.

Oh, you know, shiny things really attract me. Every time I have some extra, I buy bracelets, rings, earrings or necklaces. I wear them everywhere and everyday. If I am shopping somewhere and there is something flashy shining at me, I usually stop and look and very often a salesperson can talk me into buying it. It's crazy, I know. I also love buying books but I don't spend so much on them.

Ah, I spend money mostly on... going out, like going to restaurants or clubs, and things like that. I am a party person, I love hanging out with friends. I don't actually buy a lot of things, like electronics, books, CDs. I just spend money on going out with friends, on food and drinks for parties. I really love chatting, dancing and making jokes.
