Forgive me, my mother

My dear, dear mother,

I love you very much .

If you only knew,

That you mean for me.

I know, sometimes I am rough,

and in the silent evening a shawl fingering,

You, mother, don't think badly,

I treat you loving.

I know that you always nearby,

And even when you are far.

You will see off me by watching to the road

and you will wave with a hand in a trace.

Your gentle, kind hands

Are given me always caress.

I miss them in separation,

And so I don't have you.

If you knew, my mother,

As strongly I love you.

Forgive me, I ask, my dear,

I will ask you hundreds times.

For that, that I didn't often obey,

For that, I sometimes lied,

And you are not guilty in that,

such I always was.

Forgive me, my mother, for that,

Also that only now I speak,

You know, among all people,

I certainly love only you.

Thank you very much for your poem,
It's very touching and emotional and there are some words up to tears ...
I think that everyone would like to ask his mother for forgiveness .....
With best wishes.
