The poem to Sergey Yesenin

My actions are so scandal,
My poems are so sad,
My life is such a fatal,
I'm not still sure if I'm a poet!

What fore I exist in here?
What for I love and breath?
I'm wasting my life with no fear,
And I'm not afraid of death!

I'm waiting for nothing now,
Except for drinking and orgy.
I've drunk my painful soul
And gave it to devil with hope:

Someday I'll back to my childhood,
And see my family home
To meet with my beautiful Tanya,
To walk in a meadow and wood.

To listen to crane crying,
To breath fresh and country air,
To feel myself calm and flying,
To be again a baby!

There is something of Esenin's style in your poem, really!
But mind spelling & grammar next time.
Good luck.
